2 weeks before group starts	You might already know the answer to these questions, but it will be a helpful reminder	Who is in your group and or possibly co-leading with you?	Phone Call or Meeting
		What will your group be going through?
		When and Where will the group gather?
		Do you have a plan for child care?
9 days before	Make sure they have answers for all of the questions above.	Follow up with the who, what, when, where, how questions.	Email or Text
		Ask them if they need anything from you.
4 days before	This is probably overkill, but we want to make sure they know we are her for them.	Make sure they are set for the first group meeting.	Phone Call
		You could ask how they are feeling about the whole thing.
		Encourage them.
1 Day before	Most likely the day before groups kick off.	Encourage them to invite people at church. People join groups when they are invited!	Email or Text
1 day after the 1st group meeting	They might already have things they want to talk about, but here are a few conversation starter questions.	Over all, how did your first meeting go?	Phone Call or Meeting
		Who came to the group?
		What did you do?
		How did you and your family feel about it?
		Anything we can help you with?
1 day after the 2nd group meeting	Follow up after their 2nd meeting, again letting them know they are on their own.	Did everyone who came the first time return?	Phone Call
		How did it go?
		Are you thinking of changing anything?
		Call me if you need anything.
3-4 weeks after their group started	At this point regular coaching will kick in.	How is it going?	Email or Text
		How can I help?
		Can we set up a regular monthly meeting?
